SOCIETY IS SHORT OF MEN

Jolly Stag Party Has Gone on a Visit to Senator Cameron.

Mr. Warner Will Build a House for His Daughter—Other Bits of News and Gossip.

The truth of the cynic's assertion that everything in this world is give and take was brought forcibly to my mind the other day as I heard a prominent club man say to his chum, one of the smartest of our smart set: "Of course, you are going to the Blank dinner tonight?" "No," said the young man, addressing the club man. "Mrs. Blank was kind enough to invite me, but I knew it simply meant I would have to ask Miss Blank to dance the next evening with me, or send her a lot of flowers and that sort of thing so I pleaded another engagement."

It would not be possible in any other city than Washington where the scarcity of men is proverbial, for a man to pick and choose with such daintiness.

A jolly stag party composed of Mr. Myron Parker, Mr. Berian Wilkins, Mr. Chapin Brown and Mr. Mallett Kilburn left the city at 3:20 yesterday afternoon en route to Senator Cameron's place on the island of St. Helena, Beaufort, S. C. They will make the Senator a visit of a week or ten days, and the most arduous duty required of them is that they hunt and kill the wild turkey which they are served at dinner Thanksgiving Day. "Coffee's End" is the cheerful name of Senator Cameron's place, and those who have been fortunate to visit there say it was thus named because the house and everything connected with it are so perfectly opposite from anything gloomy or funeral.

Lieut. Fletcher's wife will spend the winter with her mother, Mrs. S. C. Fletcher, at the home of the latter in the Maine, which it is expected will be ordered to cruise in West Indian waters.

Mrs. Warder will build a handsome house on K street, near Eighteenth, for her daughter, Mrs. Ward Thoren. Ground has already been broken for it.

Mrs. Louis M. Saunders, of Oregon avenue, was at home yesterday afternoon to her friends.

The Ladies' Aid Society and Busy Workers of the Chapel of the Advent, will give a Pomme de Terre social tonight at the residence of Mrs. A. B. Bower, No. 1903 Harwood avenue, Le Droit Park. A literary and musical program will be among the attractive features of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Hutton B. Miles has returned from his hunting trip to the Adirondacks, where he has been for the past three weeks in quest of November game.

Mrs. Elizabeth T. Spenser returned yesterday from a month's visit to her daughter, Mrs. M. Davis of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. McDonough of South Washington gave a progressive euchre party last night in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage, which occurred on Sunday last. Grouped about the parlors were eight small tables filled with guests, each eager to win the prizes at stake, a silver smoking set and bronze banquet lamp, that cast a circle of rose pink light under its flower-veined shade.

At the conclusion of the allotted games it was evident that Mrs. McNamee Ferris and Mr. John J. Stafford had distanced all competitors, the booty prize, a brilliant necklace, went without contest to Col. H. G. Greene. At the close of the pleasant evening a dainty supper was served. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spaulding of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leckard, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Miller, Miss Nellie Ferguson, Miss Daisy A. Clark, Miss V. R. Sturge, Miss Nettie Price, Mr. J. J. Holman, Mr. Benjamin A. Williams, Mr. Horace White, Miss Al. Benson and Mr. Walter Price.

The friends of Miss Placida will be pleased to learn that she is convalescing from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Lyon will leave Monday for a brief trip South, returning by way of Atlanta.

Miss Mabel Thompson of New York avenue is visiting friends in Boston.

Mrs. J. G. Reeves of Chicago is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Meade, Jr., No. 204 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wright and daughter, Miss Mary, of O street, sailed for Europe yesterday.

Mr. Ellis E. Whitmer will leave this evening for the Atlanta Exposition. Upon his return he will be joined by Mrs. Whitmer, who will accompany him to Chicago, where they will remain until spring.

Hon. C. M. Cooper and family are located for the season at No. 1743 I street.

Miss Kitty McElwaine will leave shortly for Germany to complete her musical studies under the tutelage of her mother's brother, Herr Emil Strauss, of Berlin.

Miss Minnie Dierken was given a pleasant surprise at her home, No. 8 I street, last Wednesday night. Dainty dancing and games were indulged in until a late hour, when a dainty collation was served. Among the party were: The Misses May Bell, Bessie McCarty, Daisy Clark, Mary Brown, Katie Quinlan, Maudie O'Connor, Agnes Quinlan, Katie Rouser, Bessie Collins, Maggie Cunningham, Irene Lawlor, and Jennie Dierken, and the Messrs. Joseph Burke, Daniel Cook, Richard Curtis, Daniel McKeever, Michael Leahy, George Brian, James Botswood, George Lunsdale, Jeremiah Cook, Joseph Fealey, John Wheeler and Joe Dierken.

At the marriage of Miss Daisy Gorman to Mr. Robert Johnson at the German residence on Wednesday next only the relatives of the bride and groom will be present at the ceremony and wedding breakfast. There will be no bridesmaids or ushers. Mr. Perry Johnson, younger brother of the groom, will be best man. After their wedding trip the young couple will go to honeymooning at 1622 P street, which will be complete for their occupancy by that time.

At Elkville City, Md., yesterday occurred the marriage of Miss Margaret Clark of Howard county and Mr. Renus Dorsey Trumble of Gaithersburg, Montgomery county.

The ceremony was performed at Mt. Calvary Protestant Church, near Roxbury Mills. The bride, who was attired in white satin garnished with lilacs of the valley and maiden hair ferns, and carried a bouquet of bride roses, entered the church looking on the arm of her father, Mr. George D. Clark. Miss Florence Clark was maid of honor, and wore white organdie over white silk. Mr. Smith Lunsdale was best man. The ushers were Mr. Otto Nichols, cousin of the groom, and Dr. Middleton of Washington, and Messrs. Thomas Clark and Gillis Owings, Jr. of Howard county, brother and cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Hanna, at her home, No. 1515 Rhode Island avenue, gave a small dance last night. Holly, chrysanthemums and roses were used in the decoration of the lower rooms. Dancing did not begin until a late hour. Card playing was the order of the evening. At midnight an elaborate supper was served.

Among the 100 guests were Mr. D. P. Lamoreaux, Mrs. Walter Dum, Commander Myrskos, Dr. Jarvis, Judge and Mrs. Best, Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. Walter McLean, Dr. W. Mackall Fairfax, Mrs. Wm. Fisher, Dr. Devereaux and Mr. Wing.

The Unity Club celebrated its twenty-second anniversary Wednesday night at the residence of Mrs. L. A. Crandall, one of its original members. The occasion was of especial interest, as the club has recently been incorporated under the laws of the District. It was first organized by and was composed of members of the Unitarian Church, and was patterned after

Mr. Crandall gave a very interesting sketch of the history of the club from its inception to the present time, giving the names of those who had had the honor of being its first presiding officers and the special objects of its organization. Other of the older members of the club assisted in the reminiscences.

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Kent, pastor of the People's Church, read an essay on "Wit and the poet of humanity." Discussion of the paper by several present followed.

Mrs. Agnes Martin Bennett and Dr. Ira Warner Denison were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gilchrist Martin, No. 1324 L street. The ceremony was presided over by Rev. Dr. Newman of the First Congregational Church, performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Findley Harris played the wedding music.

The bride entered leaning on the arm of her father, and gowned handsomely in pearl-colored silk trimmed with chiffon and fastened at the throat with a diamond brooch.

Her bouquet was a cluster of long stemmed white chrysanthemums. Miss Lillian Harris, who sat in the center aisle, carrying white chrysanthemums, preceded her. The groom entered with the mother of the bride. Among those who witnessed the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. William W. Cook and Miss Olmstead of New York, Mrs. Brian Denison and Mr. Charles Denison of Mystic, Conn.; Mrs. Anna Byrne and Charles A. Freshford of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. George Oakes, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Harris, Miss Van Sinderen, ninety years of age, cousin of the bride; Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blacking of Brooklyn, Lieut. S. P. Edmunds, U. S. revenue cutter service.

Mrs. Martin, mother of the bride, received the guests, who of white organdie, wore a gown of black silk ornamented with round point lace, diamonds and a carried a bouquet of roses. Over a hundred guests were present, and they were all warmly welcomed by the bride and groom.

Mrs. Denison is well known all over the United States, having for some years been registered general of the Daughters of the Revolution. Dr. Denison is one of the successful medical practitioners of this city, having been for some years resident physician of the Washington Hospital. The presents were handsome and numerous.

Washington society delights in afternoon teas, its pretty girls are prettiest by the hundreds of snappers, their wit and charm over the tea cups, and they serve the steaming beverage with a grace and charm envied by their sisters in other cities.

In the homes of the Capital's clock teas are not dull, formal functions such as Du Maurier sketches in his nimbale sketches, where colorful youths and dispirited last century beaux congregated to chat of nothing at all with match-making mamma and daughters seeking husbands and an establishment. Here the brightest and best of girls and flowers, and robed in the latest Parisian gowns, weave the spell of delicious diversion about masculine adores of brains and brawn, men who come from every clime of the globe, who have traveled far and wide, yet acknowledge no fascination greater than these Washington belles, whose sympathetic response, or quick retort, comes easily to their lips in many languages.

Mrs. Sifton Butches has issued invitations for a tea Sunday afternoon from 5 to 7. Twenty friends have been bidden to this delightful informal gathering.

Cards are out from Mrs. A. C. Barney, for a 5 o'clock tea Friday, December 6, to introduce Miss Natalie Barney. Mrs. Barney will give a number of teas through December.

Mrs. Howland will give a tea at her apartments at the Shoreham in compliance to the Misses Dodge December 17.

Mrs. Sternberg, wife of Gen. Sternberg, will give a tea tomorrow evening from 4 to 7.

Lieut. and Mrs. Cruise entertained at supper last evening a number of the officers and girls who took part in a hop at Fort Myer.

The first meeting of the Needle Work Guild will be held at the home of Senator Gorman

Modes for The Juveniles

LITTLE WOMEN IN FULL WINTER PLUMAGE.

Their Toilets Are More Rich and Costly Than Ever Before in Colors and Fabrics Used.

In the little toilets pictured are demonstrated some of fashion's most accepted styles for small maids. All are distinguished by the richness of color and texture that are now the dominant features of grown-up modes, and, as with those, velvet is called into effective use for trimming.

Indeed there is hardly a little gown or coat to be seen that is not decorated in some way with velvet, in yokes, hems, and stock collars and belts with the frills and shapings into great spreading cape collars for the coats.

In turn, too, these last will often be covered completely with a rich lace, especially where the velvet is dark or black, and not infrequently the lace will be applied on in elaborate designs.

Trimming for simple frocks, in plain or tartan wools, are narrow black moirai braids, worn with a cord effect, ribbons and small gilt buttons, which are put in close rows on the bodice, and often hold down ornamental bands on the skirt. Musk, saide and ermine are the furs used on coats, the stuffs of which are either plain cloth, damask wool, or one of the popular boucle weaves that bristle with curled moirai loops.

For maids under 6, white cotton silk is a rich and favorite coat texture.

The white silk cloak pictured is for a young lady of 6, but it may be accepted as a good design for any girl above the baby age. It has a double breast in two pieces, closing with four fancy pearl buttons, and a cape collar and square cuffs of turquoise blue velvet, effectively edged with ermine.

REAL LACE IS USED.

The flounce over the collar is of antique lace in a rich warm white, and the garnish is made yellow throughout by a crown wedding.

Real lace is much used on these dainty cloaks, and the velvet is always in the moirai, baby boys of course, may be allowed (pampering) of pale yellow, but all white is commonly preferred for them; the cape and cuffs in this instance being of the same silk as coat and leggings edged with mink or sable. Long trimmings in white leather, or white cloth lined with gilt fringes, are worn with these, but for young gentlemen in knickerbockers there are the same stylish yellow gaiters, so long in favor. These button far above the chubby knees, and are then, by way of contrast, a narrow little pea-jacket in stout sail-blue cloth is a frequent accompaniment.

The hat shown with the white cloak described, is a juvenile Marie Antoinette, which is a favorable and becoming shape for girls from four to seven. The brim in this instance is of white felt, the puffed crown of turquoise blue velvet, and the sides of white crepe feathers and rosettes and strings of white satin ribbon.

The gathered mitts of the same silk as coat, ermine edging the openings.

Other mitts for small tots are entirely of ermine or white angora, and with them there will be a wondrous little bonnet, finished with a lead, real grown-up fashion. Fur sets for nannies from twelve to sixteen are commonly in dark silks; sometimes the muff is of gathered cloth, the same as coat, fur trimmed. But the tippet will be one of the same whole skin that muffle mamma's throat, and a knot of gray velvet at one side is quite admissible.

COLD WEATHER CAPS.

With the second coat is shown a style of bonnet in excellent keeping with bitter winter weather and which is called a Dutch cap.

In design it is as old as the hills, but it is also just now very new, so may be recommended for little girls who suffer from cold and that bone of childhood, earache.

The fact is, too, that any mother with two little girls can make one of these caps at home, at little expense, is another word in their favor.

knobs of ribbon, some patterns of which cost as much as $3 the yard. Indeed, one very splendid hat lately seen for a young lady of 16 was marked $35. Though it was very beautiful and looked enchanting when perched over a grave blonde face, one only felt inclined to say, "what a goose," meaning, of course, the foolish mother who would indulge in such woful extravagance.

A MODEL COAT. But to return to our uniforms and the economical Dutch cap, with its accompanying coat. Both of these are made of pale brown cloth, with trimmings of velvet in a deeper tone, and mink fur.

The cap fits the head closely, a square flap of velvet turning over Dutch fashion on the cloth, and over the eccentric cape collar of the coat, a heavy bosom lace is applied on velvet, an already described. The broad turnover cuffs are arranged
